

HELP US INSPIRE HOPE TODAY.

According to the Pennsylvania Child Protective Services Annual Report, there were over 7,600 cases of child abuse in 2018. That means that approximately 1.9 of every 1,000 children experienced abuse.

When a child experiences abuse, bringing the abuser to justice often requires the child to relive their trauma several times through interviews and investigations. PennCAC works with forensic interviewers and local law enforcement to streamline the process and get the child and their family the support they need.

PennCAC aims to promote, assist and support the local Children's Advocacy Centers and Multidisciplinary Teams that serve Pennsylvania's children. A donation to PennCAC helps provide specialized training for those who help child victims of abuse and their families.

Approximately 1.9 of every 1,000 children in Pennsylvania were abused in 2018. In 2018, over 44,000 cases of child abuse were reported. Investigations found that over 5,000 of those claims were substantiated. Sexual abuse accounts for nearly half of all substantiated cases of child abuse.
